

Fastaff's Rapid Response® Model Saves the Day

DURING HOLIDAY STAFFING CHALLENGE

FASTAFF EFFICIENTLY DEPLOYS MORE THAN HALF OF THE NEEDED RNS WITHIN 48 HOURS

A week before the 4th of July, a New Jersey health system with three hospitals faced a sudden staffing crisis due to an electronic medical record (EMR) conversion project being moved up. With many full-time nurses taking summer vacations and high patient volumes, the facility desperately needed over 150 experienced RNs.

Without any time to lose, the healthcare facility reached out to Fastaff. Famous for their Rapid Response® travel nurse staffing and guaranteed delivery, Fastaff immediately started recruiting experienced nurses. Their in-house team worked throughout the holiday weekend to secure more than half of the needed RNs within 48 hours, with the remaining nurses arriving in under 10 days. The facility required coverage in three locations, needing highly specialized RNs such as ER, ICU, cardiac cath lab, LDRP, OR and psych. Fastaff's extensive database of experienced nurses helped meet this demand swiftly.

Executive Summary

- > A three-facility health system unexpectedly expedited the date of an EMR conversion, urgently needing 150 nurses.
- > Fastaff successfully recruited and arranged travel for 150 nurses in less than 10 days.
- > Fastaff was able to secure housing for all nurses in the popular coastal town, even though it was a busy holiday weekend.
- > Guaranteed delivery of experienced travel nurses contributed to the success of the conversion, and the client secured Fastaff services for the second phase three months later.
